1984-85

HEAD COACH
CHARLES HOFFMAN

Charlie Hoffman, Maryland class of 1972, begins his 9th season as head coach of a much improved team. Stronger recruiting efforts over recent seasons have resulted in freshmen classes of unprecedented quality making the Terps a growing force in the conference.

Coach Hoffman attracts capable student-athletes because of a balanced philosophy that stresses the importance of swimming in conjunction with academic success. Maryland swimmers always maintain one of the highest grade-point averages of any team on campus, and this has been accomplished without sacrificing necessary pool time. Swimmers and parents alike have responded to this approach with enthusiasm, and the athletes even find time to have a little fun once in a while.

Hoffman replaced Bill Campbell in 1976, and has extended the Maryland consecutive winning season's streak to 27. He received a Master's degree in Physical Education from Maryland in 1976. Both he and his wife Linda are natives of Perkasie, Pennsylvania.

FACILITIES

The University of Maryland offers to its swimmers a 25-yard, six-lane pool with separate warm-up area, located in Cole Field House. Swimmers utilize a complete Keiser, Nautilus and free weight-training facility on campus. Maryland also has complete training and sports medicine centers. For diving, there are 2 one-meter and 1 three-meter boards. Divers also utilize the White Oak Swim Center which features a five-meter tower.

JOE HANNAH
Assistant Swimming Coach — 6th Season

Joe Hannah is starting his sixth season at Maryland as the assistant coach and jack-of-all-trades for Terp swimming. In addition to his duties around the pool, Hannah also helps supervise the weight-training program, provides instruction and information concerning diet and nutrition to the swimmers, and aids Coach Hoffman in recruiting efforts. Hannah also believes that swimming success is not dependent solely upon swimming practice, and thus he deals with other areas relevant to athletic success.

Hannah swam from 1973-77 at St. Lawrence University and Allegheny College, where he received a B.A. in Political Science. In 1979 he earned a Master's degree while serving as an assistant coach at SMU. Hannah is currently a doctoral candidate in Exercise Physiology at Maryland.

MIKE TOBER
Diving Coach — 3rd Season

Since Mike Tober came to Maryland three seasons ago, Terp diving has become competitive with the ACC's best, and the 1984-85 diving team is the largest and most talented yet. It is a tribute to his efforts, both on the deck and in recruiting, that Maryland performers are again capable of winning in any conference meet.

Tober graduated from N.C. State, where he earned All-American status and was five-time ACC champion in the one- and three-meter events. He spent two years as diving coach at Virginia Tech before coming to Maryland, where his national and international experience should greatly benefit the Terrapin divers.

KIRK SANOCKI and JIM WENHOLD — 1st Season

Former Terp standouts Kirk Sanocki and Jim Wenhold return this year to add their considerable enthusiasm and experience to the team effort. Sanocki was a conference breaststroke champion in 1980, 1981 and 1982, achieving All-American honors in 1981. Wenhold ended the 1983 season as the fastest 100-yard freestyler in school history, and was also a conference finalist his last three years.

COACHES

The quality and depth of their knowledge, and the international experience of Sanocki, who has trained in Canada with world record holder Victor Davis, will help the entire Maryland program. Intensity and encouragement are the best of their assets, and the effects will be noticed at the end of the year.

SEAN REDMOND
Manager and Student Assistant Coach

Every program needs an efficient and responsible person to take inventory, distribute equipment, and set up for meets. Now in his fifth season with the Terps, Redmond fulfills these obligations and more. In addition to his duties as manager, he will also serve as student assistant swimming coach. Redmond has put in a great deal of time and effort for Maryland swimming, and the program is a stronger one because of those efforts.

1984-85 PREVIEW
MEN

The Terrapin men brought in two high school All-Americans to add to a young cast which will benefit greatly from a year of experience and improved depth. Freshman Dan Krewson provides Maryland with national caliber quality in the middle-distance freestyle and butterfly races. Senior freestyler Joe Haddon and sophomores Paul Schimmel and Robert Guenther are also among the best in the ACC in their respective events.

Junior Todd Gray plans a return to the top of the conference in breaststroke after a sophomore season lost to illness. Freshman Peter Burton the second Terp H.S.A.A., should enable Maryland to dominate the league in these events, as they did two years ago.

Backstroke is the province of sophomore Simon Witton, while Witton, Burton, and Haddon will all contribute in the individual medley. Sprint freestyle is manned by sophomore Mike Kelly, with help from freshmen Eric Moore and Mike Raue.

Finally, the diving outlook is bright with returning conference finalist Marty Bare being joined by freshman Don Lefebvre.

The Terrapin men are not a big team, but hope to move up in the conference standings because there are no "weak links." Everyone is capable of scoring in the conference meet and expectations are high.

Both the men's and women's teams possess enough individual quality to win a dual meet against any conference team. The task ahead is simple —building sufficient depth to rise in the conference standings. The 1984-85 Maryland swimmers are moving in the right direction.

WOMEN

Last year, the University of Maryland women's swimming team enjoyed its finest ACC Championship meet ever, and this momentum should continue through the 1984-85 season. No seniors were lost to graduation and a few vital holes in the lineup were filled with outstanding freshman talent.

Divers Courtnay Carr and Michelle Del Poccia join juniors Alisa Blitz and Ingrid Padilla to give the Terps their strongest, one- and three-meter contingents in team history. Another freshman, freestyler Michelle Duer could be the sprinter Maryland has long needed to pair with senior Amy Dilweg in the 50- and 100-yard events.

Backstroke is in the capable hands of sophomores Patty Corson and Nicole Fowler, while butterfly will be contested by record holder Kim Peifley. Breaststroke belongs to senior Betsy Bozzelli and junior Debbie D'Andrea, now healthy after an injury-riddled 1983-84 season.

Senior Lisa Unger will again compete in the distance freestyle events, along with sophomore Laurie Hug. Hug and D'Andrea are going to handle most of the individual medley events.

Overall, there is some top notch talent among the Maryland women, and performances at the end of this season should surpass anything they have done before. Corson, D'Andrea, Peifley and Hug are all capable of meeting national standards, and could even be joined by a few more of their teammates.
